APPENDIX ISCOPE OF BASIC SERVICES*APPENDIX I - 1. Scope of Basic Services:

- 1.1. The scope of services under this contract does not require Berger to perform hazardous waste site investigations. Berger shall have no obligation, responsibility or liability with respect to such materials.

Based on the available research into the history of Ewa Field, and following discussions with a broad array of agencies, officials and stakeholders, various priorities for preserving specific battlefield resources have been identified. Those priorities are being organized into preliminary battlefield preservation plan options which will be reviewed and revised based on additional research and stakeholder input to reach a consensus on a single battlefield preservation area delineation. Each preliminary battlefield plan option currently calls for:

- Providing opportunities to visit and interpret different areas of the battlefield containing resources associated with December 7, 1941 and World War II.
- Improving access for vehicles, pedestrians, and bicycles via an upgraded street network.
- Integrating the battlefield preservation area with planned Pearl Harbor Historic Trail and other City/State trails, historic sites and recreation plans for the area.
- Setting aside one or more designated areas for vehicular parking and visitor gatherings.
- Upgrading the area currently devoted to commemorative ceremonies and other related events.
- Use of interpretative signs and other visuals along pedestrian trails and paths to describe the December 7 battle, its significance, role of Ewa Field throughout World War II, etc.

Task 1: Develop Interpretive Plan

At present, the relatively remote location of Ewa Field and the conditions which currently exist in the area have precluded the development of any interpretation of the battlefield, and even the most knowledgeable visitor can have difficulty locating the surviving elements of Ewa Field. With development of the Battlefield Preservation Plan, one of next steps in the sequence of actions towards preservation plan implementation is to develop plans for interpretive materials to be deployed on site. Berger proposes to provide the following services to facilitate the development of materials appropriate for the interpretation of Ewa Field and its role in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Based on the resources extant, Berger will develop an overall plan for interpreting the site, identifying key locations for placement of interpretive signs and pathways to provide access to those resources and information to the visitor. Development of the proposed interpretive plan will recognize the need for an ADA compliant experience.

Based on the eventual delineation of the battlefield preservation area and the resources identified for preservation and interpretation, Berger will define the locations of pedestrian trails and paths that would lead visitors to the key historic resource locations at Ewa Field. They would lead from access points identified during the planning process, such as road heads and vehicle parking areas, to such key locations as the Warming-up Mat, Mooring Apron, former 1941 Hangar location, 1941 Runway, and other areas included within the adopted battlefield preservation area. The paths would be interconnected to encourage exploration of the entire site and show placement of interpretive panels that would explain various aspects of the battle and mark the location of key elements on the landscape.

The proposed alignments of trails and paths within the battlefield would seek to connect with the alignment of the planned Pearl Harbor Historic Trail and other existing and proposed city and state trails and nearby historic sites and recreation areas. This includes trails associated with the City and County park which is currently being planned for the area including and adjoining the Ewa battlefield (southwest).

The plan would show placement of interpretive kiosks and/or signage at key locations in the battlefield preservation area as well as at vehicular and pedestrian access points. The plan will include suggested images and text for explanatory panels describing the overall history of the site along with maps depicting the trails and paths leading to key historic resources. Construction and/or installation of interpretative materials, panels and kiosks is not included as part of this proposal.

Task 2: Develop Scope of Work for Additional Archaeological Surveys

Most would agree that conducting additional archaeological surveys would be valuable to understanding the complete story of Ewa Field and its role on December 7, 1941. However, the dollar value of the NPS grant to AMVETS would not allow for a sufficiently large area to be systematically surveyed to provide meaningful and useful information. Instead, as part of this overall effort, Task 2 would be devoted to developing a detailed scope of work for conducting additional archaeological surveys of specific locations within the Ewa Field Battlefield with the highest potential to yield valuable information. (Areas utilized by the Marine base are expected to have disturbed any pre-base cultural sites.) This effort would build upon the work accomplished by previous surveys and would provide a roadmap for future archaeological surveys within the battlefield.

Included as part of the Scope of Work development would be reviewing previously conducted surveys. This would include the two surveys performed within the battlefield boundary including Haun's 1991 survey and Welch's 1987 survey; only the Welch's survey found sites within the boundary (50-80-12-3721 and 3722). Remote sensing was also employed as part of the GAI Ewa Plains Battlefield Determination of Eligibility (Donald W. Johnson, July 2013) having investigated the locations of several December 1941 era structures. Reviewing the work of others will ensure that lands already surveyed are avoided in favor or targeting areas not previously surveyed. The results of previous archaeological surveys of the battlefield area will be summarized in the Scope of Work.

Task 3: Outreach and Engagement with Stakeholders

Success in developing a Battlefield Preservation Plan that respects the historical significance of the Ewa Field area requires the input and advice from a broad array agencies, organizations and individuals who have devoted themselves to honoring the men and women associated with the December 7, 1941 battle. Since initiating its battlefield planning process, Berger has met with key stakeholders to initiate a dialogue to identify common goals and objectives and the means to achieve such goals. Such discussions have yielded insight and guidance so that the development of the Battlefield Preservation Plan properly considers the valuable historic resources. Outreach and engagement, involving one-on-one meetings and small group sessions, is currently underway or anticipated with the following agencies and organizations as part of the development of the Ewa Field Battlefield Preservation Plan:

- U.S. Navy (NAVFAC)
- Historic Hawaii Foundation
- Hawaii State Historic Preservation Division
- Department of Hawaiian Home Lands
- Hawaii Community Development Authority (HCDA)
- City & County of Honolulu, Parks and Recreation Department
- AMVETS Hawaii Service Foundation Corporation

- National Trust for Historic Preservation
- National Park Service
- Kapolei Chamber of Commerce
- Advisory Council on Historic Preservation
- HCDA Kalaeloa Community Network

Between AMVETS Hawaii Service Foundation Corp. and Louis Berger U.S., Inc.

For Task 3, Berger will extend its outreach and engagement efforts beyond that currently scheduled and for the duration of this scope of work to allow stakeholders and decision-makers to be contribute in a meaningful way that results in an action-oriented plan. This includes:

- Participating during meetings with key stakeholders to describe and discuss interpretative plan development (in person or via teleconference).
- Maintaining the Ewa Battlefield website for the duration of the effort to make available information to key stakeholders and others about interpretative plan development via the website.
- Preparation of one newsletter describing interpretative plan development to be written in easy to understand language and contain user-friendly graphics to help the reader understand technical information. The newsletter will be provided to groups and individuals through emailing and web postings, and as a handout at various gatherings, as applicable.

APPENDIX I - 2. Definition and Schedule of Deliverables:

Unless Client specifies a date for project completion, the schedule of deliverables should be discussed in terms of weeks per task/report/deliverable from Notice to Proceed. Contingencies should be specified such as the dates for deliverables are contingent upon fulfillment of Client's responsibilities pursuant to Article III of the Contract. Listed below are the Berger deliverables to be provided.

- Interpretative Plan for Ewa Field Battlefield (based on final configuration of battlefield)
