

Dr. David G. Brown came to the Pacific from the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD-Readiness) where he was the lead Clinical Psychologist and subject matter expert (SME) for suicide prevention and was instrumental in the creation of the Defense Suicide Prevention Office.

With nearly thirty-years of experience within the Department of Defense (DoD), Dr. Brown has testified before Congress on the topic of Suicide and has supplementing the speeches of the President (Obama) of the United States, the First Lady, numerous Secretaries, Senators, Congressmen, Flag, and General Officers when speaking on psychological health.

Dr. Brown holds degrees in philosophy and religion, English literature, agency counseling, and has a doctorate in clinical psychology respectively from Ithaca College, the University of Northern Colorado, and the American Psychological Association approved American School of Professional Psychology - Honolulu.

He completed his residency training at the Department of Psychiatry at Tripler Army Medical Center and postdoctoral training in Mind Body Medicine at the Benson-Henry Institute/Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Brown is a Veteran and is a recipient of the Office of Secretary of Defense Medal for Exceptional Civilian Service, the highest level career medaled award, and is a member of the Order of Military Medical Merit. Dr. Brown is a graduate of the JFK Special Warfare Center, Command and General Staff College, Air Assault, and the Special Operations Medical Sustainment Course. From 1995 to 1997, he deployed with the 1st Armored Division Implementation Force (IFOR) to lead soldiers in the former Yugoslavia and to work with survivors affected by mine strikes, shootings, mass graves, rape, ethnic cleansing, and genocide. He has taught undergraduate and doctoral level courses in psychology and sociology at universities in Asia, Europe, Hawaii, and Washington, D.C.